Lithofold Paid U.S. Employees $65,878

Four Federal Workers Cited By Witness

Washington (AP)—A Senate inquiry group was told yesterday that the American Lithofold Corp., a St. Louis printing firm with government contracts, paid $65,878 to four federal employees while they were still on government payrolls.

Two witnesses told the Senate's investigations subcommittee that $45,085 went to James B. Finnegan while he was collector of internal revenue in St. Louis. Finnegan has been ousted, and a federal grand jury is investigating his activities.

Carmine S. Bellino, a subcommittee investigator, testified that company records show that John L. Kelly, former chief of the Labor department's wage and hour investigating unit for New York and New Jersey, received $13,942 from the firm in 1949, 1950 and the first seven months of this year. He said the payments were listed as advances on sales commissions.

Bellino said James B. E. Olson received $5,851 in 1949 and 1950 while he worked with the Internal Revenue bureau's alcoholic tax unit in New York.

Chairman Hoyer (D-N.C.) of the inquiry group said Olson resigned his government job on August 24.

Bellino said he found instructions in American Lithofold's records to pay Walter Daxon $1,000, and discovered that the amount was paid. Daxon is an internal revenue agent assigned to the Newark internal revenue office.

The subcommittee began its probe of Lithofold's affairs after charges were made that William M. Boyle Jr., Democratic national chairman, used his political influence to help the company get $565,000 in loans from the reconstruction finance corp. Boyle has denied the charges and yesterday President Truman again expressed confidence in his party chief.

The testimony about Finnegan came from Bellino and Homer W. Stanhope, comptroller and assistant secretary of American Lithofold. Stanhope was the man who wrote the checks.

Stanhope said the $45,085.11 listed as paid to Finnegan was for salary and expense.

Stanhope testified that the firm also hired Boyle, in early 1949, while it was negotiating for an RFC loan, and Max Siskind, Boyle's former law partner, each at $500 a month, recording them on their books as salesmen.

At the time, Boyle was executive vice chairman of the Democratic National committee, serving without a salary.

Boyle, he said, received $1,250 between Feb. 17 and April 15, 1949, inclusive, but endorsed "for deposit to the account of Max Siskind" a final $250 payment dated April 30, the same year. That date is 10 days after Boyle became the salaried vice chairman. He advanced to the chairmanship the following August.

Boyle and Siskind are lawyers. Boyle has declared publicly he got $1,250 for legal work which had "nothing to do" with negotiating the RFC loan. Stanhope said Siskind still is a lawyer for the firm. Stanhope swore that "the RFC" in St. Louis "knew what Boyle and Siskind were actually getting paid for," despite the fact a report to the lending agency in connection with the loans named them as salesmen.

POLICE Chief Erwin Konovsky (above), of Cicero, Ill., has been indicted on a charge of misconduct of a public officer. Konovsky is accused of "failure to do everything possible to prevent the rioting" that forced Negro Army veteran Harvey E. Clark Jr., and his family to flee from an apartment building in the all-white suburb.

State Tax Program Hits Surprise Snag In Senate

Harrisburg, (AP)—The $138,250,000 compromise tax program hit an unexpected snag in the Senate yesterday throwing a September 28 adjournment timetable out of the window.

The Senate Finance committee thumbed through the group of House-passed bills for three hours without reaching a decision. It then called for another meeting Sunday afternoon.

"The committee does not have enough information available so that anyone can form an opinion," said Chairman T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne).

Sen. John M. Walker, Republican floor leader, discarded plans for meetings today and Saturday as a result of the new tax impasse. The assembly recessed until Monday.

One of the principal stumbling points of the House-passed tax program was a bill to remove an exemption from payment of the five per cent corporate net income of dividends received from corporations not subject to that tax.

Sen. G. Graybill Diehm (R-Lancaster) said corporation lawyers told him the measure was drawn in such a way that it could cost their organizations as much as $80,000,000 in the next two years.

The House committee that drafted the bill estimated that it would produce only $1,500,000 of the package. Rep. Charles C. Smith, Republican floor leader, said it was aimed primarily to knock out a Dauphin county court decision which permitted tax exemptions for subsidiaries of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The new tax stalemate recalls the income tax controversy. The one-half of one per cent levy, proposed by Gov. John S. Fine, bogged down in the Senate Finance committee last April after passing the House.

Subsequent attempts to resolve the tax dilemma has sent the 1951 Legislatures into the longest session in 175 years. And a $111,000,000 gap in the Governor's $1,220,000,000 budget for the next two years remains unfilled.

The Finance committee's holdup ditched an attempt to finish up legislative business before the end of the month.

Speaker Herbert P. Sorg said the House Republican leadership "will make every effort to bring about a final adjournment next weekend regardless of whether the Senate passes a tax program or not."

"We feel we have completed our work, and if the Senate intends to do anything more, especially on taxes, they have plenty of time next week to do so," Sorg said.

The House has passed both the income tax and the $138,250,000 compromise package, giving the Senate its choice.

"That is all we are going to pass in the way of taxes this session," Sorg declared.

Large Allied Tank Forces Roll North

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Friday, (AP)—One of the largest Allied armored forces assembled in the Korean war smashed into the "iron triangle" of central Korea today in "Operation Cleaver."

The dawn attack was designed to test the Red defenses around Pyongyang, apex of the one-time Red buildup area.

The powerful forces rolled northward without early contact. An umbrella air power shielded the advance.

The Allied assault came shortly after Red reinforcements pouring into the eastern front yesterday brought to a halt the Allied month-long drive on hill positions.

Allied Infantry, still attacking north against stone-wall resistance, failed in 11 separate hill attacks. They barely saved a 12th hill from a raging enemy counterattack.

It was the sharpest reversal the Allies have suffered in months of fighting, reports to Eighth army headquarters indicated.

Reinforcements, some officers said, probably were responsible for the Red's recapture of "heart-break ridge," a strategic height on the eastern front. Three heavy attacks earlier were down the defenders.

Tokyo, Friday, (AP)—The United Nations command today rushed into final form the conditions under which the Allies will consider a return to the suspended Korean talks at Kaesong.

The conditions were not announced, but probably would call for joint Allied-Communist ground patrols of the five-mile neutral zone around Kaesong and a constant U. N. air patrol by daylight over the area.

The Communist high command yesterday proposed that the negotiations they suspended August 23 be "resumed immediately."

A source close to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway indicated that the supreme Allied commander probably would give his conditional reply within 24 to 48 hours.

A&P Chairman Drops Dead

New York (AP)—John A. Hartford, 73, who made the A&P chain food stores a mass operation, dropped dead in a skyscraper elevator yesterday.

He was chairman of the board of the A&P—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. He once was president of that firm, founded by his father in 1859.

Hartford was leaving a board meeting of Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director. He stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler building on 42nd St.

A heart attack sent him slumping to the floor of the elevator. He died immediately.

Hartford's father, George Huntington Hartford, founded the business as the "Great American Tea Co." with a single store on New York's lower east side.

Hartford was born in Orange, N. J., and went to work in the store in 1888 at the age of 16.

His older brother, George, already had joined his father in the firm. George is John Hartford's only close survivor.

Commies Don't Like 'Oklahoma'

Berlin, (AP)—The Communists issued yesterday their opinion of "Oklahoma." They don't like it.

The American musical, a hit at home and abroad for eight years, is being received happily by West Berliners, but in the East zone where the Soviets hold sway, a critic of the Russian sector newspaper Berliner Zeitung am Abend took a dim view of it.

"In the field of culture," wrote Critic Hans Preuss, "there is no better proof for the deadly effect of the American presumption to 'protect' European culture. For 'Oklahoma' is not a start, but the end and death of art, a warning sign for all artists in West Berlin."

Berger Taken Ill

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter) was taken ill in his office here yesterday from nervous exhaustion. He is Senate GOP caucus chairman.

ESCORTED BY TWO OFFICERS, Harry Gross, known as the "bookie king" leaves Kings County Court house in Brooklyn after being sentenced by Judge Samuel Leibowitz to 60 months in jail and fined $15,000 for contempt of court. Later he was handcuffed and taken to jail. The key witness against 18 New York policemen charged with accepting graft from Gross' $20,000-a-year betting ring-blew up, shouted defiance of the court and refused to continue testifying. Judge Leibowitz, therefore, had no choice. He dismissed all indictments against the accused officers.

Prosecution Demands Stiff Penalty For Gross, Moves Ahead Date For Sentencing

New York, (AP)—The state went all-out for stiff punishment yesterday against boss bookie Harry Gross, who wrecked Brooklyn's big mass graft trial.

His parole was taken away and he was shipped to jail. The date for his sentencing on gambling charges in Special Sessions court was moved forward from October 8 to September 27.

Every pressure that legally can be used was put on Special Sessions to make it tough for the pudgy gambler when he comes up for sentencing on 66 counts. The maximum penalty—seldom given—is 68 years.

"I've heard that he expects four years and a $40,000 fine," District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said. "I intend that to be doubled and perhaps tripled."

Gross refused to testify against 18 policemen, accused of taking $1,000,000 a year in bribes to protect his $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

As a result, Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz threw the mass graft case out of court Wednesday and freed the 18 cops. He did Gross $15,000 and sentenced him to five years in jail for contempt.

District Attorney McDonald claimed information that his star witness took a $75,000 payoff to keep his lips sealed. But McDonald didn't indicate who might have put up the money.

The blowup was a public sensation, the like of which New York has seldom seen. But while the public buzzed over the drama, politicians looked behind the scenes for the overall effect.

At least one candidate for the city council presidency was expected to make campaign fodder of the case. He is Rudolph Halley, the owl-eyed former counsel for the Senate Crime committee who was a star of its televised hearings.

Bans Price Increase

Newark, N. J. (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization yesterday ordered a Wyckoff garbage disposal firm to junk a planned price increase. The Newark district office said garbage removal was one of the many services controlled under regulation 34.

N. L. President Voted $65,000 Annual Salary

Chicago (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National league, was named commissioner of baseball last night to succeed A. B. Chandler.

The new commissioner was chosen for the $65,000 a year post at a closed session of the 16 major league club owners at the Palmer house.

Frick, who was prominently mentioned as a successor to Judge K. M. Landis in 1945, has long been identified with baseball, first as a newspaperman in the West and in New York City, and since 1934 as president of the National league. He is 56 years old.

Thus ended a search that began last December 11 when the club owners refused to vote Chandler a new contract. Although his contract had until next April 1 to run, Chandler bowed to pressure and resigned his post, effective last July 15.

Frick is the third baseball commissioner. The first was Judge Landis, appointed in 1921 following the Black Sox scandal. Landis died in 1944 and was succeeded the next year by Chandler, then a U. S. senator from Kentucky.

Announcement of the election of Frick was made by Earl Sullivan of the American League Service bureau, standing on a chair outside the Crystal room, where the big league owners had been meeting since 11 a. m. (EDT) yesterday.

"The term will be for seven years at an annual salary of $65,000," said the announcement.

"The final ballot was unanimous, 16 to 0. Mr. Warren Giles moved that his name be withdrawn and moved for a unanimous vote."

Frick and Giles were the only two candidates voted on during the long sessions. Approximately 20 ballots were taken in all.

The baseball owners decided at the outset of the day to choose a man from the ranks of the game to become the third commissioner of baseball.

"The vacancy in the National League presidency will be dealt with in the immediate future," said the announcement.

Frick, who had been in Florida for the funeral of Bill Klem, famous umpire, returned yesterday to New York and accepted the baseball commission by telephone.

Packers Unable To Fill Army's Beef Request

Washington, (AP)—The Army is turning to foreign markets for more than 12,000,000 pounds of beef, after being offered only 190,000 pounds by American packers.

Army officials said yesterday they had asked 212 domestic packers to bid on a 13,000,000-pound contract, but that only two offered to supply any meat. "These were Kingan and Co. of Indianapolis, which offered 100,000 pounds, and Dugdale Packing Co. of St. Joseph, Mo., which offered 90,000 pounds," an Army spokesman said.

Packers have listed a current shortage of high quality beef and government price controls among reasons for declining to bid.

The Army stated yesterday that if domestic packers failed to furnish the beef it would request authority from Army Secretary Pace to buy overseas.

One-Block Drive Proves Costly

Media, (AP)—Daniel Kennedy of nearby Upper Darby drove only two blocks but it cost him $100.

Patrolman Chester Sanders said this is what happened:

Starting the wrong way on a one-way street, Kennedy knocked over a pile of vinder blocks, hit a one way traffic sign, smashed down a no-parking sign, struck a parked car, splintered a contractor's shack, sideswiped another car, bowled over another stop sign, hit three trees and wound up in front of his garage trailing 50 feet of picket fence.

Kennedy took the ill-fated ride on June 9. He entered a plea of guilty before Judge William R. Teal yesterday on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of liquor. He said he didn't remember a thing after the vinder blocks.

Headon Crash Causes Injury To Operator

One person was injured, not seriously, when two light model cars crashed practically head-on in the Franklin Hill area in Smithfield township, at 5:40 p. m. Wednesday, P. C. Peter A. Sabinsky, of the Stroudsburg State police barracks, reported.

Mrs. Pauline A. Singer, 20, of East Stroudsburg, RD 3, operator of one of the cars involved, was injured and removed to the Monroe County General hospital by a passing motorist, where she was hospitalized. Her condition was reported as "good" last night.

According to police, William Fritz, 44, of Stokes Mill, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, was moving his car to the right of the main highway, when the collision occurred. Fritz told the police the bright sun was shining in his face and he failed to see the Singer machine coming towards him. The vehicles met almost headon.

Fronts of both cars were damaged, the Fritz machine to the extent of $100 and $200 to the Singer vehicle.

Police Transfer Man From Jail

Frank Furnace, who has been in the Monroe county jail since Dec. 23, 1950, when he was brought here from the Eastern penitentiary on burglary charges, was transferred to the county jail at Tunkhannock yesterday.

The prisoner was taken in charge by P. C. Stephen J. Hynick and John Byerly from the State police barracks at Wyoming. Charges to be faced by Furnace at Tunkhannock were not revealed.

An Answer for Mr. Wilson

(From The Wall Street Journal)

Speaking in defense of price controls the other day, Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was reported by the New York Times to have posed this question: "Has anyone got another plan ... for keeping inflation under control?"

Well, we have such a plan.

But first, since so many discussions of inflation suffer from vague terminology and mixed-up definitions, perhaps we had better set forth more precisely what is this inflation we are talking about. And maybe make a guess or two at what Mr. Wilson is trying to talk about, too.

Judged by its context, Mr. Wilson's question was based on the theory that rising prices, or anyway the tendency of prices to rise, constitutes inflation. What he wants to stop is rising prices, or anyway the tendency of prices to rise too rapidly. So, though he professes to dislike price controls in principle, he sees no other method of dealing with "inflation"—his concept of inflation—except to have the government pass an edict that prices may not be higher than such-and-such.

If one were to accept Mr. Wilson's definition that rising prices is inflation, it's easy to see how some such direct attack on prices themselves might seem a logical remedy. But even accepting this definition and this approach, some difficulties pop up.

The first difficulty of this approach is that even to make it work by its own theory all prices would have to be put under control—the prices for all goods, services and labor however seemingly remote or minute. For this sort of inflation obviously affects all prices. If you fix some by edict and leave others free you only twist the economy into an unmanageable shape. In short, you have to have a completely controlled economy.

The second difficulty is that after you accept the theory that what you are trying to do is just to keep prices from being "too high" you have no way of deciding what is "too high." Even at the present ceiling levels many prices are "too high" for many people. If the government can wave its hand and reduce the price of an article from a dollar to ninety cents, why not reduce it to eighty-five cents, or fifty cents? If the thing can be done, it occurs to us to suggest that the present ceilings are not nearly low enough, the control rules not strict enough.

In other words, if you were to follow this approach then the thing to do would be to apply price rules to everything and roll the ceilings back to whatever level is necessary to wring all the "inflation" out of the economy.

But this, of course, is not the plan we intend to suggest. It is a sidetrack which Mr. Wilson has invited us to explore; if it leads to an absurdity, it is because once you start on this approach, absurdity is the only place you can get to. Yet this is the sidetrack to which we think that the national effort to deal with a serious economic problem has been switched.

This misdirection, we think, comes about because we have to deal with a problem of inflation but have given the name to something else and then proceeded to try to deal with the something else. To get at the problem we need a clearer definition of "inflation." And with it, a clearer idea of what is meant by "control."

Inflation is a monetary phenomenon. It stems solely from an extraordinary increase in the supply of money. Whether that money supply is augmented by clipping coins, by printing press currency like greenbacks, or by bank deposits based on government securities is immaterial. We have inflation only when we have the phenomenon of an increased supply of money units.

Since the basic fact of inflation is an inflated money supply, the tendency of prices to rise as the supply of goods and services is measured in a more plentiful monetary unit is only a symptom of inflation. Just as a rising temperature is an indication of infection, so rising prices are an indication that inflation is affecting the economy. But rising prices are by no means the inflation itself.

Once this is recognized, the whole question is put in a different light. It is then possible to devise a rational and effective approach to the problem of inflation.

On the face of it, price control can then be seen as no way to deal with inflation. It is not only no answer to inflation; it is almost irrelevant. And hence Mr. Wilson is not really asking for "another" plan. Because he is missing the point, what he proposes is not a plan for dealing with inflation at all.

Since inflation is a monetary matter, then nothing at all in the way of a "control" in non-monetary fields can be applied as a remedy. Indeed, it ought to be clear that "control" is not the desired word. What we want is "prevention," or, failing that, the ending of inflation.

In our opinion, the thing to do about inflation is not to have it. Or anyway, not to have any more of it.

This is not an impossible task; and although it may be politically difficult, that is nothing beside the impossibility of Mr. Wilson's way. All that is necessary is a conscientious national effort by the Administration to stop financing Treasury deficits by pumping government securities into the banking system.

We certainly agree with Mr. Wilson that inflation "is an enemy possibly even more dangerous than Russia." But it is an enemy that can be conquered. If the government will stop inflating the money supply, there will simply no longer be a problem of controlling the runaway prices which Mr. Wilson calls inflation.

Try And Stop Me

The season's prize for ingenuity goes to the antique dealer who had five rickety statues for sale, and labeled them "The Five Senses." Somebody bought one, and a new sign was put over the remaining four: "The Four Seasons." Another was sold, and the new sign read "The Three Graces." When only two statues were left, they became "Night and Day." Finally, only one remained. The dealer called it "Solitude." When that was gone, the dealer looked up his shop, and left again reading, "Gone with the Wind." Back when the factory turns out some more antiques.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — "The People Against O'Hara" is a fair to midning murder yarn until it gets cluttered, confusing and contrived. Attorney Spencer Tracy loses a murder trial — but saves his client's life at the cost of his own.

Towering James Arness (who played "The Thing") is framed on the money rap by dope thieves. Tracy's old friend, becomes confused and forgetful as trial evidence goes against them. Spencer resorts to his old enemy, drink. Under the influence of two slugs of rye, he bribes a witness.

He atones for this, however, and clears his man by turning up the real killer after the guilty verdict is in.

An extraneous funeral is thrown in, apparently to show that Tracy delivers a nice eulogy. The biggest hook is when a suitcase supposedly containing dope is placed in a house as bait to draw the real killer out of hiding. For no clear reason, Tracy goes in with the suitcase. A radiophone transmitter, concealed in his clothing, keeping him in contact with nearby police, adds to the manufactured melodrama.

Tracy gives another expert portrayal of weary, successful middle age devoted to its offspring, Diane Lynn, as his daughter is present chiefly for love-making with Richard Anderson. A newcomer, William Campbell, contributes a neat bit as a cocky underworking on the witness stand. John Hodiak and Pat O'Brien are prosecutor and detective chief, respectively. Two more admirable law enforcers you never saw.

These Days

Mr. Cousin's Replies

Some time ago, I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists; although he traveled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not question Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins's case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders—writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc. The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: it would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For instance, if the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clippings reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting World Federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments: "... I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's people to know (that) ... we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees ...

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the full support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace ...

"... In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law ...

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, Sept. 20 — American economists reacted as though they had been shot in the head when President Truman announced recently that despite a record indebtedness the country is in tip-top financial shape.

Actually, the President wasn't any more serious about what he was saying than he was back in 1916-17 when he was writing "puff sheets" to persuade suckers to take a flyer in a phony oil stock deal he was helping to promote.

I related at length, back in July, the financial shuckering the President and his Missouri buddies handed several hundred trusting souls in the oil stock promotion scheme. The take, as nearly as I could figure out then, amounted to about $200,000.

Since returning from Europe I find that my estimate is low. I had a number of letters on my desk that arrived while I was away. In fact, the office is littered with Morgan and Company Oil Investments Corporation stock certificates and receipts signed by Harry S. Truman. They were sent along to me by irritated victims of the "oil oil promotion deal" who had cleaned out when the President's company evaporated almost overnight.

Budget experts claim that the President was juggling figures with both hands when he said recently that we've never been better off financially. If so, it's not surprising. He was spreading the same blarney back in February of 1917. I can show you just how good he was at it then.

In a letter to Mrs. Clara Erickson, 1417 Central Street, Kansas City, Mo., on Morgan Oil Company stationery, the President, as treasurer of the company, hands her this pligh:

"We have your contract for five shares in the Atlas-Oklahoma Land Syndicate, together with $500 cash brought in by our secretary, Miss Ida England, for which accept our thanks. I am enclosing your treasurer's receipt for $500."

"You have made an excellent investment, Mrs. Erickson, and I am confident these shares will be worth many times what you have paid for them before your contract is paid out. You have no doubt been reading the Kansas City newspapers and are well aware of the splendid progress the syndicate has been making. I would advise you to get as many shares as you possibly can before we advance the price, which we expect to do on the 15th of the month. If you care to double your holdings in the syndicate you may do so by paying $500 a month for ten months instead of five as your present contract calls for. I am enclosing you a contract made out along these lines, which if you care to sign and return to this office before the 15th of the month will be accepted. Very truly yours, Harry S. Truman."

Mrs. Erickson went along for the rest of the ride. I have a receipt signed by the President, thanking her for her sixth $500 payment. He made it easy for her. The wallpaper she was peddling for oil stock could be purchased on the installment plan.

Another Kansas resident who bit was Wayland L. Saxton, of County Lake Farm, Horton. He was peddling papers for the Atchison Daily Globe in 1917 and had saved up a few nickels. He was 14 years old at the time and thought he'd buy into what looked like a good deal. He regrets now that he was able to read at that age. Morgan Oil Company advertisements in the newspapers convinced him to get in on the ground floor with Harry S. Truman. He never got any higher. He still holds 25 shares of stock. Here is what he has to say:

"I have often thought what a sucker I was and I'd like to see the men behind this deal pay back with interest added."

Next time the President talks about how sound the country is today, keep this in mind. He was peddling oil stock at $5.00 to $25 a share almost up to the day the company quietly collapsed.

"So in the Clubroom (at the Stork Club) told of her minor clash with Mistinguette. Happened when Marlene lifted her skirts high over her knees to oblige GIs who yelled for her to show her gams."

"It was at the Olympic Theater in Paris a few months after the Armistice," reported Glamour's best ad. "That audience was packed with American soldiers. When I finished my act they wouldn't let me leave the stage until I showed my legs. So—first I showed one leg—then they would yell to see the other. I guess they wondered if they matched."

Mistinguette whose legs were once as grabbable as Marlene's, sour-gripped: "How undignified!"

Gypsy Rose Lee was rapped by British critics at her London Palladium appearance.

With their austerity program, one presumes they can't see anything funny in going around with little to wear.

British jolly-well prefer the kind of American stripping that they do to the U. S. Treasury. Hah-hah!

Herb Shriner, telling about a bout in his home town, chuckles: "It isn't much, but it has a bridal suite—all it has is a lock on the door."

From the Radio and TV column of Rex Lardner: "The Five W's, as everyone knows, are the five interrogative pronouns all reporters ask themselves while covering a news story. They are: Who, Which, What, When, Where, How and Why."

Confirming another suspicion. That radio critics can't count.

Item: "The President says there are lots of people trying to bring the public service into disrepute." What a nasty thing to say about Gen. Vaughan for taking that Person medal.

In the "Borscht Capades" fayer some first-nighters were still discussing the Turpin fans, who were furious about the referee stopping the fight.

"On Broadway," reminded Valaida Snow, "there are always some jealous people when you stop the show."

Best proof the referee was dead right is that Turpin wasn't dead.

One thing is sure. Turpin took his beating more gracefully than the sore-losers.

Times Sq. Dialog: "Bookie Gross wouldn't have gotten so rich if there weren't so many crooked cops."

"You mean he wouldn't have gotten caught if there weren't so many honest ones?"

The Once Over

It Looks Like A Dirty Season

The video sports fan, already so bewildered, bothered and befuddled that he doesn't know from where his next blackout is coming, is now threatened with trouble as he tries to get the football games on his screen. Not only will the contests be limited to one or two each Saturday in any one region, but a contest will be subject to change by the sponsor. An electric supply corporation has bought the telecast rights but reserves the right to change a scheduled grid battle if it doesn't shape up with the advance notices. A team's success can depend on an advertising agency's conclusions or a sponsor's verdict. "It's a good team but it doesn't sell the product."

Many a famous college eleven will play under the great strain of not knowing whether it will make the big telecast or be cancelled as commercially inept, lacking salespower and doing no more on Saturday for a product than Queen For A Day, Kukla, Fran and Ollie or Kathi Norris can do Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday. A team may be on coast-to-coast video this Saturday and on a local disc jockeys program next week.

Video football fans are uneasy. If a sponsor can shift a game what's to stop him from retaining Corneli in a contest but substituting "What's My Line?" (not to be confused with Where's My Line?) or Imogene Coca and her pals as the opponents? What's to prevent him from dropping "Bull" McGinness, the All-American halfback in favor of Jack Benny, and sending in the Ed Sullivan hour as a second platoon for one side or the other? If Notre Dame fails to thrill three Saturdays in a row, can the substitute feature be Southern California versus "The Oscar Hammerstein Story" or "This Is Show Business?"

We can fancy the scene in the locker room between the halves when the irate coach bawls out the team with, "Men, you were lousy out there today. Just a bunch of sustaining program performers. . . . What happened to your salesmanship? . . . Where's the old advertising drive? . . . Now get this! . . . I want to part of any player who quits when the audience reaction test is on. . . . If you boys can't take it when the sponsor looks in the eye, you don't belong on the field. . . . Now get out there and fight for the electrical supplies industry! . . . Remember, every prospective buyer of a lamp bulb expects you to come through today!"

And then the stirring spectacle of a pepped-up eleven roaring onto the field to the stirring commercial, "Take any bulb of your own choosing. . . . Now take one of our brand. . . . Chew it, but don't inhale. . . . And then tell us which gives you the better overhead lighting with the least throat irritation."

Maybe we had better buy tickets and go to the bowls this fall. They can't switch games on us there and nothing will happen during the contest that will stir up our personal lighting problem.

The object of the organization it was stated, was to try to bring about order out of chaotic conditions which are said to exist in the seam-binding industry.

The session was devoted to discussing various topics affiliated with the industry. The session was reported as having been thoroughly harmonious with a friendly feeling existing between the participants. Differences of opinion were expressed, it was said, but

Better than all, they found this out themselves by simply checking every purchase they made. You can do this, too, and you'll be surprised how, over a period of time, Acme's lower price structure helps you pull down your food budget.

Garden Club's Flower Show Has Many Winning Exhibits

The arrangement tables at the Monroe County Garden club's flower festival at the YMCA yesterday afternoon might have been lifted from the illustrations in a homemakers' magazine, while the flower specimens might have posed for the seed catalogue pictures.

The judges: Rev. Frank H. Blatt for the specimen classes, and Miss Margaret McLaren and Mrs. J. N. Canfield for the arrangement classes, reported both the good and the bad features of the exhibits before Mrs. William Hawn, president of the club, presented prizes to the sweepstakes winners.

Mrs. Elwood Grant was sweep-stake winner in the arrangement class, with Mrs. C. D. Cramer winning second sweepstake prize, Miss Fannie Swartswelder won first place in the specimen sweepstakes and Mrs. John Fisher, second.

Best in show went to Mrs. Roy Houser for her arrangement, "Best of My Garden". The arrangement was composed of floribunda roses the color of ashes of roses, with foliage and glass dish in the same tone.

Prizes were also awarded in the novice class, open only to those who had not won a blue ribbon, for dining table arrangements with first going to Mrs. Robert Miller; second to Mrs. Frank Stackhouse; third to Mrs. Edwin Treible and honorable mention to Mrs. C. D. Cramer.

Ribbon prizes were awarded in each of the classifications Mrs. William Hannas and Mrs. C. D. Cramer served as clerks for the judges; Mrs. Russell Harmon, Mrs. Ralph Moore, Mrs. Edgar Van Why, and Mrs. Melvin Tetterhoff were in charge of registration; Mrs. Walter Angle and Mrs. David Shiffer, of the plant sale; and Mrs. George Rung and Mrs. Arthur Koebel, of the fruit, vegetable and jelly sale.

Mrs. Bernard Peters and Mrs. Frank Stackhouse were in charge of arrangements; and Mrs. A. Starr Phelps and Miss Fannie Swartswelder of the specimen classes.

Following the presentation of prizes the hostesses served refreshments from a table whose centerpiece was of a new variety of marigold glitters and autumn leaves. The punch matched the pale yellow marigolds and the yellow candles. The centerpiece had been arranged by Mrs. M. J. Leitner.

When you're unrolling a gelatin dessert or salad use the tip of a paring knife to loosen the gelatin around the edges.

Really quite a rural atmosphere there is back there within the sound of Main Street traffic — roosters crowing and cows mooing. Sort of interesting to stand around and watch the jelly judge tasting jelly, and wondering from her expression which one was anxious to get the prize.

Equally anxious were the Monroe County Garden club waiting for the judges' verdicts on the flower show. It was a beautiful show, but one criticism I have to offer. Shame that so much beauty and work and thought couldn't have a wider audience.

Of course they had a crowd of members out—and they made an appreciative audience—but the general public, too, would have enjoyed seeing the show.

Next year, maybe they could open it to the public after a certain order. Think maybe the home economics girls who've worked so hard with their arrangements would have enjoyed seeing the same principles put to work by their elders.

Blair Academy Begins 104th Annual Session

Blairtown, N. J.—Dr. Ira A. Flinger, headmaster, presided at a chapel service in Clinton hall Wednesday night to mark the opening of Blair Academy's 104th session. Rev. W. Stanley Gould, the academy's chaplain and director of Christian education, assisted in the service.

Two hundred forty-five boys, from eight states and nine foreign countries heard Dr. Flinger speak on "What Men Live By." Acknowledging the fact that we live in difficult times, Dr. Flinger urged the boys to banish from their minds any pessimistic outlook on life. He advised them to take a long view of world events. History and experience, he said, show that right will eventually triumph. "With God's help," he concluded, "life is always bearable and most of the time very good."

Among the new boys enrolled are Augustus C. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Miller, Pine Acres, Milford, Pa.

Boys from this region returning for studies include:

Elias Getz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Getz, 1155 W. Main St., Stroudsburg; Donald C. James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. James, Pocono Manor; David S. Brackbill, son of Dr. and Mrs. James E. Brackbill, 28 S. First St., Bangor.

A reception for 120 new boys was held at Sharpe house, the residence of the headmaster and Mrs. Flinger, from 4 to 6 p. m., on Tuesday. Registration for these students took place earlier that day. Old boys registered Wednesday. Classes began yesterday morning.

Sons of alumni enrolled this year are seven in number. Fifteen students have brothers who attended the academy. New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania lead the states in the number of boys enrolled for the coming session, having 118, 74 and 22 students, respectively. Other states represented are: California, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio and Virginia. Five students come from Venezuela. Other lands represented are: Brazil, Nationalist China, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Greece, Japan, Mexico, the Netherlands, West Indies, the Philippine Islands and Puerto Rico.

The 3,000,000 frozen food storage units now in American homes have created a growing service activity in the custom processing of locally produced meats and poultry for frozen storage at home.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Football season, both collegiate and scholastic, is upon us at the present time, despite the torrid pennant races in both the American and National Leagues. Since the grid campaign arrives in earnest this weekend, its about time this column begins to spout forth with the predictions that annually put this writer in a hole, or should I say a rut? To make matters worse, we start this season with two already wrong, having missed both local high school contests last weekend.

Stroudsburg was picked to win last week and lost, but it seems as if the Mountaineers are destined to win tonight, against Emmaus, a Lehigh Valley League foe. However, the green clad Emmaus machine annually gives Stroudsburg plenty of trouble, including last season when tonight's visiting eleven ran all over the Mountaineers at Emmaus. East Stroudsburg lost to Slatington in last Saturday's opening game, but, strictly on a hunch, I'll pick the Cavaliers to dump Pen Argyl tomorrow, in a Lehigh-Northampton League encounter.

East Stroudsburg will probably play without the services of its star back, Captain Marilyn "Ducky" Martz, who has been without practice all week because of a charley horse in his left leg. The speed and throwing ability that Coach "Benny" Leonard annually instills into his green and white clad Pen Argyl eleven looks like too much for the Cavaliers to cope with, but if I have to miss a prediction, let's hope that this is the spot I miss. Nothing would please this writer more than to have the local teams win every game for the remainder of the campaign.

On the collegiate front this crystal-ball gazer likes Akron over Case, Arizona to down Utah and Boston College to gain a narrow margin of victory over Wake Forest, while Bradley edges Tampa. Brigham Young should ease past Idaho State, with Bucknell sendings its strong team to the post for the first time with a victory over Gettysburg, as California rolls over Santa Clara. Clemson should crush Presbyterian and College of the Pacific is expected to edge Hardin-Simmons, while Colorado rates the nod over Colorado A and M.

Lehigh is a very uncertain choice over the University of Delaware, but Alabama is money in the bank against a school known as Delta State. Drake is the choice over Denver, while Detroit tops Toledo and Florida has easy pickings against the Citadel. Franklin and Marshall is a timid pick over Lebanon Valley, with Washington and Lee favored over Furman and Georgia a sure thing against George Washington. Southern Methodist will trip Georgia Tech in a very good ball game, while Harvard tramples Springfield and Baylor swamps Houston, and Cincinnati nips Kansas State.

Lafayette should be strong enough to down Albright, while Missouri appears a couple of points stronger than Fordham and Mississippi State should run wild over Arkansas State. Louisiana State has an easy opening day victory in store over Mississippi Southern, while Marquette takes the measure of South Dakota. Mississippi will humble Memphis State, while Michigan State dumps Oregon State and Muhlenberg edges Upsala. New Mexico will roll over Flagstaff and North Carolina will throttle North Carolina State, while Arkansas tops Oklahoma A and M and Stanford stops Oregon out on the Pacific coast.

St. Bonaventure will down Xavier and Duke will run wild over South Carolina, as Syracuse appears to have too much for Temple and Kentucky rates a slight edge over Texas. Texas Christian is my choice over Kansas and Texas Tech should rate the nod over W. Texas State. Tulsa appears too strong for Hawaii and UCLA is an uncertain choice over Texas A and M, while Vanderbilt should take the measure of Middle Tennessee without any trouble, as should VMI against Wofford.

Washington is entirely too strong for Montana, despite the fact that its ace ball carrier may not play at all this season and West Virginia is selected to down Wayneburg without too much trouble. Boston University should dump a William and Mary team that has had the heart taken out of it by internal difficulties in the school and Wyoming should return to the win column against Idaho and Yale can name the score against Bates. There it is—52 selections that I hope contain many more right than wrong predictions.

Opening day selections usually aren't too difficult, but in recent years games that were originally scheduled as "setups" have backfired, and this season doesn't expect to be an exception. However, for the most part form should hold true on opening day, but there are plenty of pitfalls ahead in the long 1951 grid campaign that is only an infant at this early date.

Stroudsburg Eleven Plays Host To Emmaus Tonight

Kentucky Rated Over Texas Eleven

New York (AP)—Football starts bouncing funny ways again this week, and six of last January's major bowl teams will be among those looking for the handles. The big game of the week-end sends Kentucky, conqueror of top-ranking Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl, against Texas, victim of Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl. Other 1950 bowl teams in action are California, Clemson, Wyoming and Washington and Lee.

Our Choices

Kentucky over Texas: Kentucky is famous for fast horses, beautiful women and "Babe" Parilli. When the Babe doesn't throw, a bullet named Bill Leskovar chugs, and either way it means grief for a Longhorn team that lost a lot of its 1950 teeth.

California over Santa Clara: Johnny Olszewski will show a variety of wares as "Pappy" Waldorf's Rose Bowl veterans trim a tough West Coast opponent by about three touchdowns.

North Carolina over North Carolina State: Down Chapel Hill way they're hailing Billy Williams as another Charlie Justice. If he is, it should be a big year for the Tar Heels. But N. C. State won't be easy and there are definite upshot possibilities.

Texas A&M over UCLA: Bob Smith gives the Aggies one of the most powerful running attacks in the country. He should be the slight difference in a bitter battle with "Red" Sanders' tough Uclans.

SMU over Georgia Tech: The Mustangs don't have any Donk Walkers and Kyle Riles but should have enough all-around strength to beat Bobby Dodd's Engineers, who are still a-building.

Michigan State over Oregon State: They are loaded at East Lansing this year and it'll be a long trip home for the boys from the northwest.

Friday

Alabama over Delta State: Mississippi over Memphis State, Syracuse over Temple, Arizona State at Tempe, over Utah State, Washington & Lee over Furman, Wake Forest over Boston College.

Saturday

East: Yale over Bates, Lehigh over Delaware, Harvard over Springfield, West Virginia over Washington.

South: Mississippi State over Arkansas State, South Carolina over Duke, Georgia over Georgia Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennessee, Louisiana State over Mississippi Southern, Florida over the Citadel, VMI over Wofford, William & Mary over Boston U.

Midwest: Cincinnati over Kansas State, Missouri over Fordham, Miami (Ohio) over Wichita, Marquette over South Dakota, Bradley over Tampa, Detroit over Toledo, Iowa State over Wayne.

Southwest: Oklahoma A & M over Arkansas, New Mexico over Flagstaff, Baylor over Houston, Texas Christian over Kansas.

Far West: Colorado over Colorado A & M, Denver over Drake, Wyoming over Idaho, Washington over Montana, Stanford over Oregon, Arizona over Utah, Southern California over Washington State.

Only Marker

The Giants got their run when Hearn walked and was sacrificed to second by Eddie Stanky. He moved to third on Alvin Dark's infield out and scored when a Raffenberger pitch went off John Parnes's glove and rolled to the backstop. A subsequent single by Bob Thomson was wasted.

Nine men batted for the Reds in their half of the eighth. Roy McMillan led off with a single and went to second when Hearn threw the ball away trying to pick him off first. Parnes sacrificed him to third. Joe Adcock, pinch hitter for Raffenberger, walked and Bobby Adams' fourth hit of the game—a double—scored McMillan. Johnny Wyrostek then singled Adcock home. Wally Post looped one back of third and the ball caromed off Thompson's glove for a fluke double. That scored Adams.

Raffenberger allowed only three hits in his eight innings of work. New York — 600 000 010—1 4 3 Cincinnati — 600 000 03x—3 12 2

Double

Hornell won in the last of the ninth on Gil Shirk's double with a man on second after the score was tied 3-3.

Hornell finished third in the league standings this year behind Olean and Jamestown. The Dodgers knocked out Jamestown in the semi-final playoffs four games to one.

Collins' Dramatic Eighth Inning Home Run Enables Yankees To Gain Nod Over Pale Hose

by Joe Reichler

New York (AP)—A dramatic home run by Joe Collins with one out and two on in the eighth inning pulled the Yankees from the brink of defeat yesterday and gave the American League leaders a tremendous, 5-4 uphill victory over the stubborn Chicago White Sox.

The game-winning blow by Collins, a part-time first baseman, may well prove to be the most important hit of the season for the defending champions. It not only prevented the Yankees from falling out of first place, but it increased their margin over the idle Cleveland Indians to a half game.

Collins was not content to rest on his laurels following his game-saving homerun. In the White Sox half of the ninth, the 27-year-oldster from Scranton made a dazzling backhanded grab of Eddie Robinson's solid smash in the hole between first and second, and flipped underhanded to pitcher, Art Schallack, who made the putout at first.

The importance of the play was soon realized. A throwing error by Phil Rizzuto and a single by pinch-hitter Bob Dillinger put two White Sox runners on base with two out. Had Robinson's drive gone past Collins, the score would have been deadlocked at 5-5.

As it was, Tom Morgan, who relieved Schallack at this point, forced pinch-hitter "Rocky" Nelson to bounce to Gil McDougald for the game-ending out.

The White Sox again outbait the Yankees by a wide margin, 13-7, but again it was the home run, a handy weapon which the Yankees have cultivated since the days of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, that saved New York.

Until the eighth, the Yankees had been moved down with monotonous regularity by Saul Rogovin, a transplanted pitcher, who was something of a batting sensation when he starred in the infield for Lincoln High School in Brooklyn.

Big Saul, one of the most effective pitchers in the league against the Yanks this season, appeared as if he was ready to wrap up his fourth win against them as the locals came to bat in the eighth trailing, 4-2. He had allowed only five hits and one earned run. Between the second and seventh innings, he had retired 12 straight batters.

Phil Rizzuto raised the hopes of the 13,712 cash customers somewhat by smashing a single to center, Johnny Mize, batting for Bob Hogue, third New York hurler, fled out. But Mickey Mantle drew the game's second walk off Rogovin to set the stage for Collins' game-winning smash.

Collins, playing because the aging Mize was taking a much-needed rest, looked at a called ball, then sent a high drive about six rows back into the right field stands.

It was only the eighth circuit blow for the .270 hitting first sacker.

ESSTC Athletic Head Named Official In New Conference

Harrisburg—Oscar J. Liljensen, athletic director at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was named vice president of a new athletic conference formed yesterday by Pennsylvania's 14 State Teachers Colleges here at a meeting of all schools involved.

George P. Miller, Indiana, was elected president of the new group, while John A. Hoeh, Bloomsburg, was named secretary-treasurer. Harry J. Straw, Shippensburg, was appointed public relations consultant.

The conference, outgrowth of plans formulated last year by the board of college presidents' athletic committee, will start operation immediately for the 1951 grid campaign.

Hoch said the group will issue weekly ratings of the conference members based on the strength of each school's opponents.

The conference will regulate competition in football, basketball, track, soccer, baseball wrestling and any other sport in which four or more schools indicate they wish to participate.

Cage Circuits May Combine

New York, (AP)—The American Basketball League took under consideration last night a proposal to combine with professional circuits in Connecticut and Pennsylvania to form a 16-team league.

"It may be possible to work out something by which the American League will operate as two eight-team divisions," said president John J. O'Brien.

E. J. White of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and J. J. Maloney of Scranton, Pa., were named to discuss the merger with officials of the Eastern League in Pennsylvania.

Perry Pilotti of Bridgeport, Conn., and Arthur Joseph of Saratoga, N. Y., were appointed to consult with the Connecticut group.

Dudas In Tournament

Mountaineers Feature Three Player Changes

Stroudsburg High school's grid machine will attempt to even its season's record at one victory and the same number of defeats tonight, when the Mountaineers play host to a green and white clad Emmaus football contingent under the lights at Gordon Giffels field. The kickoff is slated to take place at 8.

The Mountaineers, still smarting from the 6-0 licking handed them by Bangor in last Saturday's opening game, are hopeful of making the "T" minded Emmaus eleven their first victim of the infant 1951 season.

Stroudsburg will conduct a light workout after school today, after a week of long hard drill sessions.

Special emphasis has been put on defense by the Stroudsburg coaching staff, both in the line and backfield. Several steps have been made to strengthen the defensive setup. Pass defenders have been put through special drills in an effort to see that a pass completion such as the one accounted for by Bangor doesn't occur again this season.

Charges

Coach Jerry Stulgatis announced last night that three changes have been made in the lineup for the Emmaus invasion, all dealing with the switch between defense and offense. Dan Berman will be at center on the offense, while Don Stone holds down the same position on defense. Al Adelman will be at left end on offense, while Russ Bachman takes over the wing position when Emmaus has the ball. Dick Schmidt will handle the quarterback's duties on offense, while Don Garaventi moves into that position on the defense.

Floyd Williams, on the sidelines most of the week with an injured elbow, will be back at his usual right end position tonight, while Carl Hagerty fills the right tackle berth and co-captain Frank Armistead plugs the right guard position. Either Berman or Stone will be at center for the kickoff, with Jim Driebe, voted the most valuable player in last week's game, at left guard. Dick Campeotto will be at left tackle, with either Adelman or Bachman at left end.

The backfield will feature either Schmidt or Garaventi at quarterback, Alton "Red" Fetherman, left half, Karl Weingartner, right half, and Dave Shook, fullback.

ESSTC Grid Machine Plagued By Trouble At Center Slot

Gene Martin, head football coach at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, announced yesterday that aside from a few charley-horses and one bruised shoulder everything is going smoothly in the development of the 1951 ESSTC grid machine. Martin is confident that the team is shaping up slowly under the conditioning program.

Tar Heel Sets New Record For Pacers

Delaware, O., (AP) — Writing practically a new record for three year old pacers last night, Tar Heel, sensational son of Billy Direct, yesterday won the $66,280.55 "Little Brown Jug" in straight heats.

The Black Colt owned by W. N. Reynolds estate of Winston Salem, N. C., teamed up with stablemates Solicitor and Direct Rhythm to pick up $53,024.44 of the Jackpot. Solicitor was second, after practically giving the world record two minute second heat to Tar Heel, while Direct Rhythm was fourth.

H. D. Hanover owned by H. R. Warren and son of East Moline, Ill., was third after finishing second to Tar Heel in the first heat, and breaking at the start of the second trip around the twice around for a last place windup.

Auction Block
Tar Heel, which goes on the auction block in November at the Harrisburg, sales, during which the Reynolds estate stable of 38 will be disposed of, gave reindeer Del Cameron his second "Jug" conquest. Cameron, the 34-year-old Harvard, Mass., driver, is the only one to grab the crown twice.

The Reynolds star wheeled through the first heat in 2:01 the fastest trip around a twice-around ever made by a three year old pacer, to take the opener by four lengths. In the second heat the Reynolds entry had Floating Dream neatly pocketed.

Wicht, Director Of PIAA, Dies In Harrisburg Hospital After Collapsing At Office Desk

Harrisburg, (AP) — Edmund Wicht, executive director of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association for the past 22 years, died yesterday. He was 56 years old.

Wicht died at the Harrisburg hospital at 3:34 p. m. (EDT) of a cerebral hemorrhage. He collapsed at his office Wednesday afternoon and was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Wicht, who was "Mr. Schoolboy Sports" in Pennsylvania, had been in poor health for the past two years since he suffered a stroke. Wicht was working at his desk Wednesday when he suddenly became ill. He summoned one of his secretaries, Mrs. Lucy Miller, who found him slumped at his desk. Hospital officials said he never regained consciousness.

Native
A native of Plymouth, Wicht joined the PIAA in 1929 as its first executive secretary and director. He formerly was principal of the Wilkes-Barre Township High School after graduation from Hiram College in Ohio.

Wicht had been handling all administrative affairs of the PIAA since the resignation last month of his assistant, Lewis V. Kost, now principal of Norristown High School.

To many Wicht was the PIAA. But the retund executive was me by the board of control and this largely pertains to minor matters of administration," he once told a reporter.

But there were times that Wicht was accused of "dictatorship" and "autocracy" in his administration of the organization. His actions

Three Deadlocked For Lead In Reading Open

Reading (AP) — Three players tied yesterday for the first round lead in the $15,000 Reading Golf Open tournament.

Jim Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N. Y., Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., fired two under 69's to gap 142 players.

Turnesa, second youngest of seven golfing brothers, was one of the last to finish. He parred the first nine and came in two under on the back course, missing a hole in one on the 195 yard number 15.

Ford, a chunky scrapper playing only his second year in the pro ranks, toured the par 35-36 —71 Berkleigh Country club with five birdies. He was over par only on the thirteenth hole, his tee shot hit a tree and careened into a creek about 45 yards away.

Brilliant Golf
After a one over par on the front nine, Clark came back with a brilliant 33 on the back nine, three under par. He birdied the tenth, fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth holes after going over one on number 12.

Four other players negotiated the 6,600 yard course under par and seven made it in the regulation figure.

Bob Batdorff, Jr., of Reading, led 34 amateurs with a 35-38—73, two over par.

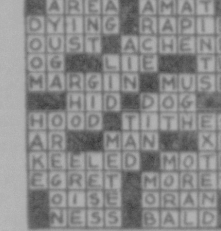

Most of the first day contenders found trouble on the postage stamp greens hemmed in by narrow, doglegged fairways.

"You could put three of them on any other golf course," commented Ford.

Cary Middlecoff, the dentist from Memphis, Tenn., a pre-tournament favorite, skidded to a 77 after taking eight on the fourth hole, a par four.

IAM Lodges Protest With Committee

Worthington Mower and Kulp's Foundry advanced to the championship round of the Gold Medal Softball Tournament at the East Stroudsburg playground last night, but complications set in when IAM protested a decision by an umpire in the game with the Foundry and lodged an official complaint with the tournament committee immediately after the contest.

IAM had taken it on the chin from Kulp's club, 5-3, when the Foundry nine had picked up five runs in the top of the seventh and final inning, after the losing aggregation had scored three times in the first round.

Worthington Mower and the Eagles, currently tied at one game each in the Monroe County Softball League playoff championship series, put on another one of their usual contests last night, with the Mower contingent gaining a 5-3 verdict, by reaching the combined offerings of Gail "Doc" Fegley and Harold Goldy for seven hits, the same number picked up by the losing team from Marcus "Marc" Decker.

Home Run
Ernie Caretta homered for the Eagles, but the blow was wasted as Worthington Mower tallied three times in the first and once in each of the fourth and fifth frames. The Eagles picked up one run in the fourth and two in the bottom of the seventh stanza.

No action is listed for the tournament tonight. An off day was planned in order to give the tournament committee an opportunity to review the protest lodged and hand down a decision.

The protest was lodged on an umpire's judgement, when Umpire Harley Nevil ruled a hit to left field by Ken Altomere fair with runners on first and third bases. The blow enabled two runs to score and gave the Foundry club a 4-3 lead at the time. The winning aggregation added one more counter before the final out.
